

Creating a People Strategy Workshop: Increasing Your Execution Capability

If leadership is about putting people first, then an effective people strategy is the key to high performing organizations.

Our people strategy model is grounded in practice based research and continuously enhanced as we gain new insights through our experience in helping organizations focus their people practices on their business priorities. HR professionals need to partner with managers to help them manage people to maximum effect. An effective people strategy enables managers to achieve business objectives through great team work and engaged people.

No progress, change or improvement happens without people. We believe that good people with food leadership makes a great business. An effective people strategy is the vehicle by which this transformation happens. It gives managers a clear steer on how best they can lead and manage people to achieve their business results.

Because good people
make a great business

This half-day workshop gives HR professionals and business leaders access to a simple but powerful model for creating an effective people strategy for their whole organization. Using it will ensure that HR are at the center of their organization's strategic planning.
